

CSR in BEIN Engineering AS

BEIN Engineering strategies are infused with Corporate Social responsibility (CSR) and ensure that all of our activities positively affect society as a whole. To realize this concept, we use our diverse knowledge to create new innovations and solutions to fulfill our responsibility towards society and environment. BEIN Engineering aims to guarantee that companies work ethically, considering human rights, labour standards, fight against corruption and assure its commitment of implementing improvement action plan to increase its performance in social, economic and environmental aspects.

CSR values in BEIN Engineering

Anti Corruption	A reliable company	Commitment of fairness	Product responsibility	Environment	Social Contribution	Human rights Labour practices
Zero tolerance policy towards corruption and financial malpractice within our own organization and in contact with our customers and partners.	We strive to be a reliable company to our customers and all our stakeholders by providing first- class technologies and knowledge.	We are dedicated to achieving transparency and stability by conducting our operations fairly by keeping highest ethical standard.	We are committed to incorporate environmental, health and safety criteria into our operations, product and services to reduce their impact throughout their lifecycle.	To become a vital company in society, we use refined and advanced technologies to promote harmony between global environment and economic and social activities.	Through our engineering business in Norway and overseas, we contribute to local community and participate actively in human resource development, technology exchange and environmental protection.	We are complied with local legislation regarding working hours and minimum wages and have a work culture where the diversity, individuality and character of the employees are respected.

Continuous Improvement Approach

Implementation and continuous improvement of these values are a primary concern in BEIN Engineering. By remitting an offer to BEIN Engineering and/or entering into a contractual relationship with BEIN, clients or customers undertake to make their best effort to comply with the principles of the CSR policy, to implement a continuous improvement action plan in accordance with these principles, to promote a similar relationship and a continuous improvement approach with their own suppliers and partners, and to ensure all their affiliates commit to the same principles.
